ROSIE CUETO: FROM BEEF TO BOARDS

Is there anyone in town who knows more about town property than Rosie? Or about the beginnings of U-32? Or for that matter, about local politics?

Most of you who are reading this article have seen Rosendo "Rosie" Cueto at one time or another. Rosie is as active in retirement as he was prior to his retirement -- serving the public. Most every working day Rosie is at the computer in the Town Clerk's office doing his job as a Town Lister. It would be rare for him to miss an East Montpelier Town Meeting or U-32 District Meeting. Many days he can be seen delivering mail throughout the town. Rosie may be perceived by many as a thinker. Rosie is also a "doer."

Rosie grew up in Montpelier and graduated from Montpelier High School and Vermont College before joining the Army and serving in the Pacific during World War II. His father, Rosendo, Sr., had opened a meat market on Barre Street in Montpelier in 1922 and, although Rosie had planned to work for Green Mountain Power when he was discharged from the Army, he joined his father at the market. Rosie and his father ran the first licensed slaughter house in the state of Vermont. Until the demand exceeded the supply, the Cuetos sold only native beef. They raised, slaughtered and cut their own beef during the hours that they were not at the store.

Waiting for your order at Cueto's Market usually resulted in a discussion of current political issues -- at any level. Rosie always had a strong opinion on any issue you wished to choose. After spending 33 years of long six-day weeks at the market, Rosie "retired" in 1979 so he could have more time to himself and to raise beef cattle on his farm in East Montpelier.

As usual, his interest in local affairs landed him right in the middle of one of the "hot" issues of the day. In the late sixties, when population projections showed that Montpelier High School would be unable to handle students from the surrounding towns, a committee was formed from members of the towns in the Union District No. 32 to evaluate a union school and choose a site. Rosie was a member of that committee, which saw several towns withdraw from the District and Montpelier vacillate until it was too late to rejoin. As a member and chair of the first U-32 School Board, Rosie was one of the architects of the "open classroom" concept that was unique at the time the Jr/Sr High School opened. Rosie tells of the many innovative ideas that were explored by that Board, several of which were introduced at U-32. One idea that was talked about was a business-education coalition. The original board thought it was important for students to be involved with the business community and for businesses to be in the school. Twenty-five years later the board is talking about this issue again.

The role of Town Lister has become increasingly challenging in recent years, and Rosie takes that challenge seriously. He spends at least a couple of hours each working day meticulously collecting, evaluating, and filing data about properties in East Montpelier, in addition to hours spent visiting the properties.

Rosie, his grandson Damy and friends

In addition to Town Lister, Rosie's civic activities have included Selectman of East Montpelier, Central Vermont Rotary, Montpelier Merchants Bureau and Montpelier Chamber of Commerce. He has been named Montpelier's Man of the Year and Central Vermont Rotarian of the Year.

Rosie and his wife Val live on Murray Road in East Montpelier. Their son Jeff is an environmental engineer with the State of Vermont. Their daughter Julie is a consumer representative with Lincoln-Mercury in St. Albans.

Rosie Cueto is a man with a headful of town history and politics, school budgets, and property appraisals -- a man with a vision of the future and a mind for the practical and the pocketbook.

Don lives on Bliss Road and is an actuary at National Life.

A TASTE OF HISTORY

The last Signpost announced a pair of "History Nights" at the Four Corners Schoolhouse in May and June. Paulie Coburn and the organizers were amazed at the enthusiastic response. A summer meeting is now scheduled for August 4. People will be gathering at the schoolhouse at 5:30 with a picnic lunch in hand and will carpool for a tour of some of the town's older cemeteries.

Other ideas came forth at the meetings, so look for possible tours of early houses in town, a visit to the one-room schoolhouses, and maybe an oyster supper. Share your ideas with Paulie (223-6886).

FROM THE TOP OF THE SIGNPOST

What has animal tracks, trees, and 2350 owners? You guessed it, our East Montpelier Town Forest. Do you know how lucky we are to have this lovely forest of about 100 acres reserved forever for the use of us all? You probably never gave it much thought. So -- what use is a Town Forest?

A forest is like a huge garden. It grows, and the harvest has value, if you want to think about dollars. During the thirty or more years since the Town Forest was created there have been several timber sales, the most recent one in 1983. The Town Forest Committee manages these, and the income provides for forest management, roadside clearing, and services like providing disease-resistant elms for townspeople.

There's an even greater value for us to think about. Like a garden, the forest is a quiet and beautiful place to walk. The Town Forest Committee has marked the trails with animal track signs, guiding walkers over the Coyote trail, the Fox trail and others. No matter that the signs have been gnawed voraciously by the animals themselves who had a taste for delicious paint! The markers are being repainted with an unpleasant pigment and some colored flagging as well. Best of all, a new trail is being developed especially for those who are not hikers. Now you will be able to park at the turnout on Haggett Road (about midway between County Road and Adamant Village), walk an easy ten minutes in a loop back to where you started, and have the joy of discovering the Town Forest.

I hope many of you will sample this treat.

RALLY DAY PREVIEW

Rally Day 1993 will be on Saturday, September 11. A group of planners are already meeting to develop activities for everyone. Here are some sneak previews:

- * Another unforgettable Variety Show! Would you like to be part of it? We're looking for talented East Montpelier performers. If you have a hidden (or not-so-hidden) talent or if you know of someone who MUST BE SEEN, call Ginny Burley at 229-0826.
- * A Kids' Hike. Yes, a group of kids will lead a hike (or several) but you don't have to be a kid to go on it.
- * A mini-Town Fair will be set up in the auditorium. You can enter your prize pumpkins, your best cherry pie, or a special flower arrangement. Plan ahead for this one.

GO TAKE A HIKE

Don't let another summer go by without taking advantage of one of the four hiking trails available in East Montpelier. None of the trails are difficult and all are enjoyable.

Enjoy beaver ponds, pine woods, hardwoods, wildflowers, birds and maybe you'll even see a moose. (I saw one at Chapell Pond on Templeton Road this spring.)

This summer the trail group will be marking the trails, and the accompanying map will help you find them. If you choose to hike in the Town Forest, the map of that area shows where these trails are located.

Trail marking is lots of fun, and volunteers are needed to help. Call a member of the trail group to find out where you can help:

Nona Estrin - 223-7745

Madeleine Mongan - 223-2579

Carolyn Shapiro - 229-5675

Happy Trails to you!

Dodge Road to Lyle Young Road (A)

Park at the Dodge Road Legal Trail access on the north side of Dodge Road between Lyle Young Road and East Montpelier Center. Take the trail north to the Cleaves Farm Trail which crosses via a farm road north to Lyle Young Road.

U-32 Trail (B)

One mile parcourse starting and ending on the east side of the U-32 playing field. Park in the parking lot or outside the gate on weekends. We are welcome to use the ½-mile track when it is not in use by the school.

The Old Cutler Road (C)

Take Schoolhouse Road and turn left onto the old Cutler Road. You can visit the tiny and interesting Wheeler family cemetery on the right or follow the old roadbed to see an active beaver pond. The trail currently goes past Eastwood development on the left, down a washed out roadbed and under the pond!

The Town Forest Trails and Varied Woodlands in the Town Forest (D)

Park at the East Montpelier Town Forest parking lot on the south side of Haggett Road just west of Adamant as you head toward the County Road.

The Strawberry Festival at the OBC will be held on Thursday, July 1, at 5:30. Bring your appetites for fresh strawberries and biscuits.

Rev. Hamilton Coe Throckmorton, pastor of these two churches, will be taking a five-month sabbatical leave beginning in August. He, his wife Mary Senechal, and their sons Alexander and Taylor, will be traveling to Bainbridge Island, Washington, where they will be staying at a minister's house (who will be spending her sabbatical in Pennsylvania). They look forward to the new sights and sounds of the Pacific Northwest.

Sharing the pastoral work for Hamilton will be two seminary students who are also church members. Deborah Bremer LaPorte of the Old Brick Church is attending Union Theological Seminary in New York City, and Susan Cooke Kittredge of the Old Meeting House is attending Andover Newton Theological Seminary in Newton, Mass. * Purpose of meeting was to open bids for truck cab and chassis and equipment. Bid for equipment went to Vermont Municipal Equipment. Bid for the truck not decided due to confusion over specifications.

April 13, 1993

- * Mike Garand gave monthly road report. Voted to have engines overhauled on two trucks.

EAST MONTPELIER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

*Jan Aldrich, Jim Hiner,
Tony Klein, Burr Morse, Sue Stephen*

April 6, 1993

* Discussion of whether or not to fill the 5/6 grade position vacated by Dot Naylor who is retiring. Lengthy discussion with input from many parents. No decision reached as board felt it needed more information.

Running the campground means being on call 24 hours a day and seven days a week. What is it that makes it all worth while? "The people are fantastic!" Ginette exclaims enthusiastically. Retired folks, young families, singles out bicycling for a few days; the crowd is diverse. Most love to congregate around the community fireplace to swap travel information, meet other travelers, just enjoy the camaraderie. Many love to talk about their past, sharing great stories around the campfire. Barriers that might exist at home in the city or suburbs drop by the wayside as a retired executive traveling in a $300,000 RV asks questions of the young couple touring the East with a tiny pop-up trailer. Visitors from other countries are fascinated by our American culture, and in the

GREEN VALLEY CAMPGROUND: WHERE THE WORLD STOPS BY

From April 1st each year until November 1st, Emile and Ginette Gosselin serve as East Montpelier's hosts to hundreds of people from all over the world. For some, Green Valley Campground is a destination for a spring weekend, a summer vacation or as a base for a foliage tour of central Vermont. Many campers, about 90% Ginette estimates, are transients on their way east to Maine or north to Canada and many regularly make Green Valley a stop along their way. As many as fifty percent of their visitors are Canadians. East Montpelier's only campground is particularly attractive to those who are French speakers because, as the sign out front says, "nous parlons francaise." Both Emile and Ginette are fluent in French, which is a real plus for many Canadian tourists.

For ten families, the attractive 10-acre spot on Route 2 near the village is their seasonal home. For the Gosselins these people are like family. They live closely together for much of the year and many of the campers enjoy helping the Gosselins with the activities of the campground. The campground mascot, Lady (alias Booger) is omnipresent at their campsites and shows a little extra weight from being a part of all these families. At the end of each summer the Gosselins throw a big going-away party for these seasonal campers. A cook-out and dancing in the streets with a live band caps the summer with a joyous finale.

Green Valley is small by most campground standards, but it offers as much or more than many larger facilities. Its upkeep and improvement is a labor of love for the Gosselins, and they pour both themselves and the profits from the business into constantly upgrading the operation. There are a total of 45 camp sites: ten for tenters and thirty-five with hook-ups for trailers and RVs. Over the years they've put in all new wiring, added sewage hook-ups to 22 sites and replaced the septic system. Last year they completed a major project of adding fill to an area that flooded regularly.

In addition the campground boasts an in-ground swimming pool, a bathhouse with washer and dryer, and a small convenience store that doubles as the office. Any camper needing more than the basics is sent up the road to Dudley's where many are referred from. A future goal is to put in a single central building that could replace the existing facilities and offer even more. As an additional service for both campers and locals, Green Valley also provides refills of propane for RVs and gas grills. Behind the main camping area, the hill stretches up with hiking trails and even a pond as a destination for an evening walk.

A high point at the campground is the large map of the United States and Canada which is mounted on the wall of the bath house. On it are positioned hundreds of pins showing where the campground's visitors hail from. While the number of folks from Vermont is small, there is a heavy concentration of markers in the northeastern United States as well as in the Maritime Provinces and Quebec. But the markers don't stop in the area within a day's drive of Vermont. They continue all across the entire continental United States and Canada. As Ginette says, "We could travel anywhere in the continent and have friends to visit all along the way."

What doesn't show on this map are all the campers who come from beyond the borders of the map. There have been visitors from Alaska and Hawaii and many from Europe. New England is a popular destination for folks from Switzerland and especially Germany. An Australian touring the U.S. by bus once arrived with tent in hand, taking a taxi out from Montpelier.

The Gosselins started out their own camping many years ago with a tent. With their family of three growing children, they graduated to a pop-up camper and later to a twelve foot and then eighteen foot self-contained unit. They loved the traveling and the people that they met. Nine years ago they purchased the property in East Montpelier, moving from their home in Barre. It had been a campground in the past but had been closed down for five years. Facilities were very limited so they were almost starting from scratch.

Establishing and running the campground has been a family activity from the beginning. Ginette is at the campground full-time, spending many days on the move from 7 am 'til 11 pm. Emile is a self-employed contractor and is also very much a part of the operation, calling in regularly when he's not actually there. Their children are now 18, 20 and 21 and no longer living at home, but for most of their growing up years, they were an integral part of the operation. One story of their first summer at Green Valley was a classic example of this collaborative family effort. When it was purchased, the campground had an in-ground swimming pool, but the sides had completely caved in. The cost to have it removed and a new one put in was exorbitant, so the renovation became a family affair. Together with the children, Emile and Ginette dug out the collapsed walls by hand, back-breaking labor by any standards, and then reinforced the sides themselves. Professionals were brought in to complete the lining.
